Outside, police closed off both ends of broad Minh Mang Boulevard, lined with towering umbrella trees, that runs along the front of University City.

A police inspector with a bullhorn urged the students to give up their demonstration, He also addressed foreign reporters there, asking them to "note that we are being moderate."

Justice Harlan was admitted to Bethesda Naval Hospital last month for treatment of back pains.

Public announcements last week indicated only that his condi-tion had continued to baffle doctors. It was learned yesterday that at least one evaluation has indicated a very serious spinal ailment.

Signifying the importance President Nixon attaches to the task of replacing Justice Black, White House Press Secretary Ron Ziegler announced that the President was studying the qualifications of seven unnamed prospects at his Camp David, Md., retreat during the weekend.

"He is going to take his time to decide on the best qualified man," Mr. Ziegler said. "The President considers this one of the most important appointments he has to make."

Nixon Sees Mitchell Mr. Ziegler said that the President had met with Attorney General John N. Mitchell yesterday before going to Camp David. In 1969 and 1970, the Senate refused to confirm either Clement F. Haynsworth jr., or G. Harrold Carswell, both Southerners, before approving Justice Blackmun, who is from Minnesota.

The court is scheduled to open its new term on Oct. 4. The justices will devote a week to secret conferences on the several hundred petitions for review that have accumulated during the sumnier recess. Oral arguments begin the following week on such critical issues as the constitutionality of capital punishment. The President would have difficulty both nominating and achieving confirmation of Justice Black's replacement in time for the new court session, and the possibility that Justice Harlan may not be sitting when the term opens could render futile (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Thant Fears New War in Mideast

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 19 (AP) — Secretary-General Thant warned today that con-tinuation of the Middle East deadlock "is only too likely" to result in a new round of fighting "more violent and dangerous" than any yet in the area.

And there is always the danger that it may not be possible to limit it to the present antegonists and to the confines of the Middle East," the secretary-general declared in the introduction to his annual report issued in advance of Tuesday's meeting of the Geoeral Assembly.

Mr. Thant based his prediction on the lack of progress in peace efforts by his special peace envoy. Gunnar V. Jarring, and by the United States and on the buildup of "military capabilitics" in the Middle East.

"I see no other way to forestall such a disastrous eventuality," he said, "then by intensifying the search for a peaceful and agreed settlement. I believe there is still a chance of achieving such a settlement." Mr. Thant discussed a wide variety of problems in the 119page document, including the China representation issue, Vietnam, UN financing and his own assessment of the organization as he concludes 10 years as its chief executive.

One of his objectives, the seating of mainland China, "seems to be within reach," he said, ex-

Sees Tragic Effect If Thieu Runs Alone

By David Kraslow WASHINGTON, - Sept. 19.-President Nixon has been warned in a confidential letter from a supporter in the Democratic party, Sen. Henry Jackson, of "tragic repercussions" for the United States if a contested presi-dential election is not held in South Vietnam. The failure to have such an election, the Oregon senator wrote, "is bound to crode remaining congressional support here for an orderly winding down of the Vietnam conflict, with tragic repercussions to the United States in Vietnam and around the world."

Sen. Jackson said the letter, intended as a private communication, was hand-delivered to the White House last Wednesday, He said he decided to make the let-ter public because Mr. Nixon, at a press conference on Thursday, distorted Sen. Mr. Thieu is running unoppos ed in an election scheduled for Oct. 3, and Mr. Nixon indicated that; after trying to arrange a fair and contested election, the United States would risk toppling the Thieu regime if additional pressure were applied. Sen. Jackson said in a Senate speech last week that various ways still exist to restore tha three-way race that had been anticipated several months ago (Mr. Thieu against Gen. Duong Van Minh and Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky.)

Sen. Jackson said the administration "should stop pretending to be helpless" in the deteriorating political situation in Saigon and that the United States still has sufficient influence to transform the one-man election into a meaningful contest. But at his press conference Mr. Nixon implied that Sen. Jackson was suggesting that the United States use its leverage to overthrow Mr. Thieu. He said that America's deep involvement in Vietnam stems from its complicity in the coup against President Ngo Dinh Diem in 1963.

with the government. Arnold Toyell, editor in chief at Beacon, confirmed yesterday that a second meeting has been scheduled for tomorrow morning in Boston, when three other representatives from the Pentagon will specify the parts of the study the Defense Department would like deleted.

Mr. Toyell said that the firm would not alter its plans without consulting Sen. Mike Gravel, D., Alaska, who provided the Pentagon papers for Beacon'e fourvolume edition.

'Official Record' Reportedly consisting of 95 percent of the secret Vietnam war narrative, the Beacon edition is formally billed as the official record of a special subcommittee hearing called by Sen. Gravel at midnight on June 29 for the specific purpose of releasing the Pentagon papers. Sources at Beacon said yester-day that should a decision be made to delete parts of the study. blank pages might be left in the book to mark the omissions.

Scheduled for an initial printing of about 15,000 copies in paperback and 5,000 in the hardcover edition, the Beacon book is already in production, at an estimated cost of $100,000.-When published, it is expected to be the only version of almost the entire Pentagon study (including 25 percent of the internal government documents that accompanied it) which is generally available to the public. Despite a Supreme Court decision in June affirming the right of The New York Times, The Washington Post and other newspapers to publish articles based on the study, the Defense, Department has continued to refuse to release it. Not Lawyers The two Defense Department

The newspaper said a police detective stopped the couple in August on a street in Kishinev because Miss Periman was carrying a bag that was similar to a bag being sought in connection with a criminal case.

"The inspector was perplexed to find malicious anti-Soviet lit-erature in the bag," the news-went further than ever befora toward meeting Western demands that any reduction of military forces in Europe must be balanced and mutual.

A communiqué issued after two days of talks at the Crimean resort town of Oreanda stated that the two leaders had found "common elements in their positions" on reduction of forces in Europe.

The basic position of Moscow and its Warsaw Pact allies, set out in June, 1970, has been that foreign armed forces on the territory of European states" should be reduced. Last May, Mr. Brezhnev dropped the reference to "foreign" forces and this weekend, Izvestia, the government newspaper, printed an article in-dicating that national, as well as foreign, troops could be reduced. Taken together with the com-muniqué, these changes were seen by Western observers as positive.

The Brandt-Brezhnev communique observed that following the Big Four agreement on Ber-lin, signed on Sept. 3, the situa-tion in Europe "facilitates the convocation of the all-European conference with the participation of the United States and Canada." Both sides promised to consult soon with their allies "in order to accelerate the holding of the conference."

HAMBURG, Sept. 19 (AP).-Franz Josef Strauss, leader of the opposition Christian Socialist Union, said today that Mr. Brandt had returned from his meeting with "less than empty hands" and that Germany's allies were partly to blame.

Mr. Strauss told the mass-circulation Hamburg daily newspaper Bild Zeitung that Mr. Brezhnev "managed to obtain East Ger-many's equal status" from Mr. Brandt. "East Germany was rec-ognized." Mr. Strau's said. "The remainder is but a formality." Mr. Strauss said that the Western allies had not been con-sulted before Mr. Brandt flew to the Orimea. "Brandt has lorgotten that the key for foreign policy is in the West, that is in Washington and in Paris." He added: "The Western powers are at least partly to blame for these developments. Mainly France cheered the Eastern orientation of Brandt, at least officially and possibly with a twinkle in her eyes, hoping that we run up.

Inmates Tell of Running 'Gantlet' of Clubs

By Eric Pace ATTICA, N.Y., Sepi, 19 (NYT). The committee set up by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to safeguard Altica prisoners' rights reported yesterday that a score of inmates had told its members they had been forced to "run a ganilet" of blows from officers nightsticks after the prison revolt was crushed last Monday.

e o tradicida cara sontar esta e A

Speaking for the committee, Clarence B. Jones, editor and publisher of the Amsterdam News in New York City, also said it had made several recommendations which were now being considered by prison authorities. These range from giving the prisoners toothbrushes to stationing volunteer monitors inside the prison to insure that guards did not mistreat the inmates,

In a later interview, Mr. Jones also said that inmates had told bim that some prisoners were killed by the troopers while trying to eurrender. And civil rights lawyers said inmates they had conferred with said the troopers' firing had been indiscriminate. There were these other developments; Members of a congressional subcommittee led by Rep. Claude Pepper, D., Fla., also visited the prison and were shown video tapes, made by the state police, which showed the assault on the prison. One committee member. Rep. William Keating R., Ohio,

'No Basis of Verification' Mr. Jones etressed that the committee had "no basis of making an independent verification" as to whether these allegations were true.

He said that ot least 17 to 20 inuates had complained about alleged beatings, and said the that several had displayed bruises. But committee members said it was not possible to say from the bruses whether they had come from beatings during the assault or during tha reported running of the gantlet. As for the charges by the observers' committee, several of its members also said that immediately after the attack that ended the uprising, they had been led through the prison grounds by State Deputy Corrections Commissioner Walter Dunbar, who told them that inmates had killed hostages with knives and had castrated one of them. Autopsies later showed that all of the Attica victims died of bullet wounds and that there had been no castration. Two of the committee members, Rep. Herman Badillo, D.,

Meanwhile, a 24-hour curfew was clamped on Attica in the face of rumors that loads of demon-strators were planning to picket the prison. It was also learned that a Yugoslav request for $100 million in new U.S. loans had been turned down. Officials said that because of congressional restrictions on leading to Communist-governed countries, the administration had decided to reschedule the $56 million in debts, increase purchases for forces in West Gernany and provide funds from the Export-Import Bank.

These steps were described here as part of an international effort-involving West Germany, Italy, Britain and France-to help stabilize Yugoslavia's wobbly economy and shore no its re-SETTES.

Sen. Humphrey and Sen. Muskie in each of the four major regions of the nation.

Sen. Kennedy far outstrips the field of Democratic hopefuls in California, as reported Sept. 8 by The California Poll, defeating his nearest rival, Sen. Muskie, by 18 percentage points.

Based on early August interviewing, Sen. Kennedy is the choice of 37 percent of California Democrats for the nomination, compared to 19 percent for Sen. Muskle and 13 percent for Sen. Humpbrey, who had the third highest vote.

Despite Sen. Kennedy's popularity with the rank-and-file of his party, he fails to win favor with the nation's Democratic county chairmen. In a Galkup survey of this key group of party "pros," Sen. Kennedy was found to run a weak third for the Democratic nomination, slightly behind Sen. Humphrey and far behind Sen. Mustie. The views of these county chairmen traditionally dominate the party convention and could therefore play an important role in any future Kennedy presidential bid.

Although Sen. Kennedy has disavowed any intention of being an active candidate for the presidency in 1972, some backers are said to be counting on a "draft Kennedy" movement at the convention.

The Mercator map is still the most widely used. It has many advantages but one great fallacy. It gives you a grossly distorted impression of the shortest way between two points that are far apart east-west.

Take London and Sydnay, for instance. The straight way between them runs over a European capital. Which?

A Mercator map would tell you it must be Brussels. With Belgrade as runner-up. But the map deceives you. It's Copenhagen. And there is no runner-up.

From most points in western and central Europe the shortest way to Sydney is via Copenhagen. Take our word for it - or look at a globe.

You can fly to Sydney via Copenhagen four days a week.

The fast way on Wednesday, with the only next-day arrival from Europa. Our Trans-Asian Express flight connects in Bangkok with Thai International's new service to Sydney. And it's the same aircraft all the way from Europe.

The restful way on Monday, Friday or Saturday. With a built-in break of 7-8 hours in Singapore or Manila before departure of the connecting flight to Sydney. After all, Svdney is over 10,000 miles away, even via Copenhagen. And the roundabout through flights take some 30 hours. Ask your travel agent for details.

The Drumming Guns

"The drumming guns" that, in Kipling's phrase, "know no doubts." have opened again in the Middle East, with a rhythm of act and reprisal that is painfully familiar and acutely perilous. It is fortunate that the world seems to have moved beyond the point where the first shots are an inevitable prelude to full-scale war, but the truce between Israel and her neighbors is far too flimsy to stand many incidents. Moreover, the diplomatic situation seems to have moved into one of those impasses so common, and so dangerous, there.

President Sadat has not only vowed a policy of retaliation against any Israeli acts deemed hostile: he has declared the United States is out of court as a possible mediator. The plain truth, however-whatever the Arab press may say-is that the United States is the only power which has made any serious effort to seek a workable compromise in the Middle East. Egypt, however, does not want a compromise; it wants every square foot of Arab lands occupied by Israel in 1967 to be evacuated.

Since this is based on two untenable assumptions-that Israel engaged in unprovoked aggression in 1967, and that the boundaries existing at the time were practicable frontiers-it behooves both sides to compromise. But there is comething in the desert winds that blow over all the Middle East that fixes every aspiration, religious or nationalistic, in sharpest blacks and whites. American efforts to point out the varioue shades of grey in the conflicting positione have met little encouragement on the spot; the Soviet Union has fiatly backed the Arabs in every open confrontation, and Western Europe is keeping burned fingers out of tha smoldering fires.

The Israelis seem to be buoyed by the development of their own arms industry, although their leaders must be aware that neither the economy nor the natural resoorces of Israel could sustain a truly independent weapons industry. The Arabs have been sustained by the Soviet Union. despite the fact that this dependence places them under political obligations that could prove more embarrassing than the recent anti-Communist episodes in Egypt and the Sudan might seem to indicate.

In other words, both sides are dependent upon outside forces so long as they are at war. Their only hope for genuine independence lies in achieving a state of peace. And this, in turn, requires some genuine give and take. It was the United States that sought to create circumstances under which discussions could take place; to dismiss that possibility is to dismiss any solution except a violent one. The drumming guns may know no doubts on that score, but those who fire them, and those who order them fired, should have many questions. The guns have been shooting for a quarter-century in the Middle East without any clear end in sight-and it is time they stopped, permanently, and allowed a little common sense to be heard.

Perils of Force

The backgrounds to the tragedies at Attica Prison and Kent State University could not have been more dissimilar. Nevertheless, in those vastly different episodes there is one common factor: the inappropriate and blindly destructive use of force that turns law enforcement into murder, no matter how inadvertent and even abhorrent to those who commit it.

Since the dead cannot be brought back to life, the principal aim in assessing the disastrous consequences of such official resort to violence is less to allocate blame tban to put an end to indefensible and futile procedures.

What makes such an assessment frustrating and melancholy is the long succession of reports and recommendations, including those by military authorities themselves, which have emphatically decried the use of combat-style firepower in quelling civil disorders as inhumane and ineffective. The Kerner Commission on Civil Disorders, the Scranton Commission on Campus Unrest and Secretary Melvin R praisal of the National Gnard's actions in dealing with domestic violence have all had one point of agreement: the training and equipment of law-enforcement units must concentrate on the twin missions of restoring order and preventing serious injury and loss of life. This applies equally whether the opposing force is an essentially unarmed civilian crowd in the streets or a mutinous mob in a stronghold such as a prison. Combat-style weapons in such situations can only kill as they are intended to do on the battlefield -and, as the events at Attica have shown once again, kill aimlessly and indiscriminately.

iethal weapons, such as chemicals and water. To be sure, the beleaguered compound at Attica was full of desperate men armed with makeshift weapons who had repeatedly warned that they would execute their hostages at the first sign of attack. These threats by convicts in jail for manslaughter and other crimes of violence could not be shrugged off, nor could they be surrendered to. Yet the prisoners had no guns and the authorities established their own timetable for the bloody showdown,

There could be no doubt in anyone's mind that any decision to retake the prison by force would create a strong probability that the hostages might be killed by the insurgents, no matter what tactics were employed in the assault. The use of gunfire was no more likely to prevent such reprisals than reliance on less lethal weaponry. On the basis of both common sense and experience, it could be taken as certain that hostages as well as prisoners would be hit by a hail of bullets while all targets were obscured by iot gas dropped from heliconters Entirely apart from the complex web of specific issues and mysteries at Attica, the whole ghastly episode has provided compelling new reasons why the nation's lawenforcement apparatus must face up to a recognition of the difference between war and civil disturbance. It is not enough to deplore the miscarriage of force in each tragedy's aftermath. Military and police training, tactics and command procedures will not change unless orders for change are given by the top leadership, uniformed and civilian.

Twenty-five years ago the Supreme Court upheld a state's power to exclude a lawyer from its bar because he refused, for religious reasons, to swear he would bear arms in wartine. That was over Justice Black's dissent; and in many cases since, though not all, his view has prevailed: the court has put constitutional limits on political tests for admission to the bar, teaching and other professions.

Moscow's 'Westpolitik'

Willy Brandt's hasty trip to a meeting with Brezhnev shows how speedily the Soviets ars exploiting the Berlin agreement for their purposes. Whereas the West suffers from differences of opinion, from donbts and inaction, Moscow is operating with an intact will from a position of strength. The question in the long run is really whether Western Europe will gradually become a political-not military-adjunct of the Soviet Union, on which neither the United States nor China would have a say. -From Neue Zuercher Zeitung (Zurich).

Mr. Brandt's visit to the Crimes for talks with Mr. Brezhnev marks a big moment in the postwar international calendar-West Germany's emergence for the first time as a fully independent operator in world politics. It must be said at once that the manner and setting of the visit are not auspicious. The invitation was issued by the Russians immediately after the signing of the first stage of the Berlin agreement two weeks ago. It was accepted by Bonn with almost unseemly haste, without notification to, let alone consultation with, West Germany's allies.

PARIS-The arrangements for receiving and feting the Tsar in Paris are now advancing rapidly. The government has asked the City of Paris to look after the decoration of the streets passed through by the cortege from the railway station to the Russian Embassy, where the sovereign will reside; to attend to the decora-tion and the illumination of Municipal buildings; and to orgaoize a grand and popular fete in Paris. It will be something to remember.

This year the expenses of the Presideot and his office force total $216,000. This sum includes the President's salary, $75,000; traveling expenses $25,000; office expenses $80,000 and contingencies, $36,000. Presi-dent Rarding expects to trim the total in

In the lifetime of most Americans, no judge has had an impact on law end society approaching that of Hugo L. Black. In fact few politicians, even Presidents, have impressed their personality so strongly on their country. The episode of the districting cases suggests some reasons for the phenomenon.

LONDON.-In 1946 the Supreme equal population in a state's congressional districts violated the Constitution. It was a novel claim; the institution of ths gerrymander was as old as the coun-court, finding the issue inappropriate for judges, refused even to consider it on the merits, arguing that equality of repre-sentation was commanded by the Constitution and enforceable in the courts. When be first circulated

Justice Black saw the issue of political equality with the directness and the simplicity of the common man-really in moral terms, uncluttered by historical doubts or sophisticated notions of the limits on judges. He was bold, and he was tenacious. He was not put off by knowing that intervention by the Supreme Court could have great effects on the political system. Nor was he discouraged by initial defeat.

Collective Voice

The Supreme Court speaks with a collective voice, and no singls justice can ever be regarded as responsible for its course. But in the districting cases, as in so many others over his 34 years on the court, Justice Black had new constitutional perception first, pursued it tirelessly and had a widening influence on his colleagues. The end might possibly have been reached without him. but hardly at the same time or in the same way.

All this must be said now, with pain, to indicate something of the country's loss in the retirement of Mr. Justice Black.

It is strange for a democracy to have its fundamental law determined by the accident of appointment to a court. But we live under that system, and the

I question Rence Reiman's "progressive ideas" concerning social equality for women, refer-ring to her letter (Sept. 11-12), which suggested that women are uofit for jobs such as air traffic controllers and should seek jobs more appropriate to their emotional endurance. Her evidencethat the co-pilot of the plane that crashed near Hamburg was lemale_is obviously weak and logically unsound. Consider the number of male operators and proportionate number of air accidents and I doubt very much if one could discover any valid relationship between air accldents and female employees.

Again, the course taken by the court has been wavering, but there are now procedural and some substantive limits beyond which the investigators cannot

And the same with freedom of the press. The absolute Black position, which would exclude even libel laws, has hardly been reached. But the impact of his views is evident in the significant steps the court has taken lately. as in sharply limiting libel actions by public figures. And he was naturally in the narrow majority that unheld the right of The New York Times and The Washington Post to publish the Pentagon papers last summer.

Finally, in this sketchy list, there is the long struggle by Justice Black to apply all the provisions of the Bill of Rights to state as well as federal action. WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (NYT).—The United States has agreed to furnish the UN with two helicopters, 200 trucks and an additional 210,000 tons of food grains and food blends for victims of last autumn's cyclone and the more recent strife in East Pakistan. The fresh aid, details of which were disclosed here yesterday by officials of the Agency for Inter-national Development, brings the total of U.S. aid to East Pakistan to date to $137 million. By comparison, U.S. aid to an estimated 8,500,000 Pakistani refugees, who have fled to India, is said to total young Marx, seems a superfluous $82 million.

40 Dead and a Hundred Questions

Tragedy at Attica Prison

By Fred Ferretti ATTICA (NYT).-The troopers A moved in. Ladders went over walls. A rescue squad of 27 men led by correctional guards broke into cell block D, where 38 hostages were being held. Marksmen with high-powered 270-caliber rifles equipped with sniper scopes shot down into that yard. Tear-ges canisters fell from National Guard helicopters. The main assault was over in about an bour. Then troopers and inmates fought each other hand-tohand in cells and corridors.

By all accounts, the operation Attica Correctional Facility last Monday morning was a tactlcal success. The inmates were unable to make effective use of their dozens of homemade swords, knives, Molotov cocktails, shears, clubs and bats. Nor were the tear-gas guns which they had captured from guards earlier of any use. Few troopers were injured, none seriously.

But 40 persons died in the attack-nine of them hostages and 31 of them prisoners. Even as teams of doctors were tending to the scores of prisoners wounded in the assault and arguing among themselves over how many were really injured and how seriously, the game of blame began.

Should Gov. Nelson Rockefeller have come to Attica to meet the inmates face to face? Rep. Herman Badillo was there and he says yes. Attorney William Kunstler says yes. Buffalo As-semblyman Arthur Eve, the first elected official to go into the captured yard, says yes. State Sen. John Dunne says yes. A Rockefeller appearance, most of them reasoned, would at least have forced postponement of the ultimatum of Monday which, once delivered, led to the point of no return.

Kunstler's Role

Was Mr. Kunstler a factor in the ultimate catastrophe? Those who were with him during the days of negotiations say that be worked tirelessly to reach an ngreement. Others contend he was on an ego trip. Still others warly that what he said to to 52.7 the convicts in the yard on Sunday night might have triggered the final stubbornness of the inmates. Beyond the game of blame, as the horror of this worst of American prison tragedies begins to and the Attica prison rebeldull lion becomes an event for politicians to investigate, many questions were posed by relatives of the slain hostages and prisoners, by members of the observer team that had been invited into the prison to help achieve a settlement, and by newsmen and concerned cltizens. Among the questions were these:

• Was it necessary to storm the maximum security prison with masses of state troopers, sheriffs' deputies, prison guards and arm-ed volunteers laying down what now appear to have been indiscriminate hails of rifle and buckshot fire? And wbo ordered the attack, described later as resembling "war" hy a doctor with a bloodstained apron? • Why was the decision made seemed that convicts' when it demands had been met for the most part and those not met were on the table?

• Why was the Committee of Observers, some of whose members were called to the prison by inmates and others by correction authorities, locked inside an office when the assault on Attica began? Were there nny observers other than prison officials and state police?

· Who was the initial source for reports-subsequently proved false-that the throats of sev-eral hostage-guards were slashed, causing their deaths; that two guards had been dead for days before the assault on the prisoo; that one guard had been emasculated and that others had been the victims of fatal "atrocities"? Why are state investigative anthorities refusing to acknowledge the existence of vidco tape recordings of the troopers' assault when the state police admit the filming was done "for training purposes?" · Finally, did the rebellious inmates in the Attica Correctional Facility actually kill anyone?

The last point is crucial, for on tt centers the question of whether amnesty from prosecution for criminal acts-one of the last remaining unmet demands of the convicts-would actually have been a viable subject for negotiations. Though be injured when the inmates tossed him from a cell block window the prison yard-but the source of this report has never been given.

Other explanations have been advanced-for example, that he might have been injured during the initial takeover of the corridors and cell blocks. Many observers who went into the prison yard testified to the care being given hostages—they had beds while inmates slept on the ground; they were given water and food when some immates went without. The hostages were the only aces in an otherwise untenable hand and so it was, in the view of some prisoners, vital that they be well cared for.

If Mr. Quinn's death was actually socidental and not a deliberate homicide, then the question of granting amnesty might indeed have been negotiable.

The best guess now is that the nine other hostages died with the prisoners because they looked alike. Inmates and hostages were dressed in the gray and white baggy prison workclothes. The orange mist of the tear gas that could not rise through a 100foot cloud ceiling made prisoners virtually indistinguishable from hostages. The hostages were bound hand and foot and could not run.

There are reports that prisoners used hostages as shields. Faces could not be seen clearly. The gunfire had men running in all directions. The toweling that prisoners had wrapped around their faces seemed perhaps like the blindfolds and hoods on the heads of hostages. It was diffi-cult to differentiate white guards from their predominantly black captors, and so they died together.

No Mutilation

All 40 dead men have been autopsied. There is no evidence of mutilation of any of the bodies. There is no case of emasculation, Two men died of slashed throats, but they were convicts. Two guards had throat wounds, but their conditions are not serious. The dead hostages are having funerals with bonor and the dead inmates' bodies were held by order of Attica's superintendent Vincent Mancusi until state investigators permitted their release, which began at week's end. The governor has ordered an inquiry. The State Legislature will have its inquiry. Rep. Claude Pepper, D., Fla., is heading a

INSIGHTS/SIDELIGHTS

By A. H. Raskin NEW YORK (NYT),-Long hours of listening to the contradictory ideas of labor, industry and farmers on how to hold wages and prices in check after the freeze led President Nixon last ek to the reluctant conclusion that a strong element of federal compulsion would be needed to keep the inflationary spiral from cooming off into the stratosphere again after Nov. 13.

"Everybody who came to the White House," said one presi-dential advise, "agreed that the country had a serious problem, but everybody insisted that all the sacrifices would have to be made by the other fellow. That means government is going to have to carry a much bigger etick than any of us wanted to do, or we'll have nothing but mush once the freeze is over."

The President's own accent shifted dramatically in the week between his appearance before a joint session of Congress on Sept. 9 and an impromptu news conference last Thursday. On Capitol Hill he had etressed the need for "the fullest possible cooperation" of all the nation'e economic power hlocs in the stabilization program for Phase Two of the anti-inflation effort. Nothing would be more detrimental to the new prosperity in the long run," Mr. Nixon told Congress, "than to put the nation's great, strong, free enterprise system in a permanent straitjacket of government controls.'

By way of making more graphic his resolve to move forward aggressive-ly on the activist tack, the President dredged up a term he had always treated with derision as a symbol of economic blundering by his Democratic predecessors and converted it to the dynamics of the new Nixonomics. He was going to use "jawboning," he said, but he was going to make it meaningful by putting teeth in the jawbone.

Labor's View

Union leaders, already con-vinced that most of the President's new economic policy was heavily weighted in favor of industry, took his tougher tone as notice that the administration would not buy their proposal for controlling wages through a tripartite agency made up of representatives of unions, manager and the public and patterned after the War Labor Board of World War II. Such a board would establish its own rules on what pay increases to allow and also establish its own enforcement policies. Beneath the bland language of the communique, however, was intense conflict over how this adjustment process should be worked out.

The crisis was provoked a month ago when the United States, in an effort to improve Its red-ink balance of payments, decided to cut the dollar loose from gold and imposed a 10 percent surcharge on American imports. The Group of Ten called the London meeting last week to seek a resolution to the crisis that threatens to put a permanent end to the international monetary system which has prevailed since the end of World War IL At the heart of the conflict is whether other nations should increase the value of their currencies, as the United States insists, or whether the United States should officially devalue the dollar in terms of gold as part of the adjustment. Thus far, the President and his chief economic officer, Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally. are dead set against any overt dollar devaluation in terms of gold. The conflict has produced a host of questions. These are some of the principal ones:

Why is the United Stotes so determined not to devalue the dollar, while bringing extreme pressure on others to upvalue their currencies?

But U.S. importers-a Volkswagen dealer in New York, say-would suffer because bis prices would rise in relation to domestic-made cars. What effect would a dollar devaluation have on the role of gold and on monetary reform? Many U.S. economists are opposed to a dollar devaluation in terms of gold because it would rehabilitate goid. As Prof. James Tobin of Yale, a former member of President Kennedy's Council Overseas. of Economic Advisers, puts It, "Much of the evolution of money through the centuries has been its progressive liberation from its traditional dependence on prectous metals, a wasteful and often

Secretary Connally demanded in London that other nations take steps that would improve the U.S. "basic" balance of payments-all inflows and outflowe not including erratic short-term capital flowsby $13 billion; the United States insisting on not only a realignment of exchange rates to bring this about but a broad range of measures to whe out trade barriers against U.S. goods and to reduce America's military burdens

This made it possible for the government to live up to its promise to stop all food-grain imports from the United States by the end of this year.

Other imports from the United States such as cotion, tallow and vegetable oils will continue, as will outright American grants of such agricultural products as milk powder and high-protein foods for children.

Though this continuing aid will still amount to nearly $100 million a year, or about 40 percent of the American food sent to India annually up to now, the ability to discontinue 69 percent of the importe, the food grains, is a significant move for India economically and psychologically. India is passing through another of its periods of emphasis on self-reliance, with politiciane iemandiog an end to the image of India as a supplicant, going around the world with a begging bowl. This time, there is a touch of more xenophobia than usual; the Indians are angered at the United States because of the Nixon administration's supply of some arms to Pakistan while the Pakistani Army continues its military repression of the independence movement in East Pakistan. That India might have to zesume the grain imports at some time in the future is, indeed, a possibility. A year of drought or partial drought could lower the cause hardship here.

Defies the Pattern

India is now enjoying its fifth straight good rainy season, which defies the pattern. Historically, out of every seven years, two bave been bad crop years, three average and only two good.

The last drought years were 1965 and 1963, when food-grain production fell below 75 million tons. This year's output of 108 million tons represents an increase of over 40 percent.

For a country of 550 million, whose world image has always been one of abject poverty, this bounty has raised what Minister of Food and Agriculture Fakhruddin Ali Ahmed recently called "the formidable problems of picnty."

These are the problems procurement, movement, marketing and storage. Storage space is perhaps the worst problem. Every year, though schoolhouses and other public buildings are commandeered for warehouses, many tons of food grains lie in the open and often epoil. The fundamental problem, how ever, is to sustain the present rate of growth in food production. The government's target is a 5 percent annual increase to keep pace with the growing population. But that is calculated on the present inadequate level of consumption of 12 ounces of food grains per person per day, whereas normal nutrition, by Indian health standards, requires a minimum of 16 ounces. Some observers fear that India's food-grain successes will lead to a lotdown in the national effort.

Questions on Dollar and Post-Freeze Program Are Creating Anxiety in Financial Markets

By Thomas E. Mullaney NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (NYT). -In the absence of any definitive indications so far as to the scope and nature of the postfreeze comestic economic program and the ultimate outcome of international monetary negotiations, the financial markets continued to display a considerable amount of andery last week.

For the second consecutive week, the stock market lost a moderate amount of ground in rather cautious trading, while the bond market moved erratically, with interest rates on the rise once otore. Both markels, however, developed a brighter tone toward the weekend after President Nixon's news conference last Thursday in which he promised that Phase Two of his new economic program would "restrain weges and prices in major industries" and that the "jawboning" program would have "tecth m it." To the surprise of no one, a lively debate bas been developing over the type of longer-term stobilization program that the administration ought to adopt for the period after mid-November, with business and labor offering different recommendations on the mechanism for moderating the upward push of wages and prices

Guideline Panel

Labor has been plumping for a tripartite body consisting of management, labor and public representatives to set guidelines for changes in wages and prices, as well as controls over profits, interest rates and dividends. On the other hand, many businessmen have been suggesting that a stabilization board consisting only of government officials be assigned that difficult task. And business, of course, has been lobbying against controls over profits, dividends and interest rates for fear they might prove to the counterproductive.

To assure some measure of success for the stabilization effort, there will obviously have to be concessions and cooperation by both sides. Even so, many doubt that any program, no matter how ingenious, can achieve any significant rerults in controlling inflation.

They feel that the market place, rather than any system of artificial restraints, is the best allocator of income and the best determinant of prices and wages.

Nevertheless, in the present at-mosphere, there is a strong body of support for a wage-price review board, no matter how constituted, to restore wage and price stability. Prodoctivity Rate

To get such results, the best bot sectors to be a tripartite board empowered to set up guidelines for wage increases in various industries, raises linked to their productivity achievements, and to create n mechanism for price increases linked to costs.

The nation must be primarily concerned with improving its productivity performance, not only to get inflation under control but also to strengthen the dollar in the foreign-exchange markets.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (NYT) .- The American Stock Exchange and the over-the-counter market last week registered their first loss in a month. Declines outnumbered advances by a slight margin in slow trading.

Analysts noted that the market is still in a consolidation phase following the strong upsurge that followed the sumouncement in August by President Nixon of a 90-day wage-price freeze and other economic measures.

Much of last werk's price weakness was attributed to investor contern over the uncertain international monetary situation and over the second phase of the President's economic plan.

The weaker tone of the market was reflected in the performance of the exchange's price index, which finished on Friday at 25.59, down 0.07 on the week

The over-the-counter market also cased. The NASDAQ industrial price index slipped 0.01 to 112.32. Much of the attention in the counter market was centered on Bacico & Co., Inc., the nation's second largest brokerage house, which made its first public offering of its own stock on Thursday. The company sold 2.5 million shares of common stock at $16 a share. The stock hit a high of $16 1/2 before ending the week at $16.

Meanwhile, as expected, there was little headway last week in the international discussions between leading non-Communist nations and the United States over steps to be taken to resolve the mammoth problems created by President Nixon's economic package on Aug. 15 in which he

The United States, seeking a $13-billion turnabout in the $9billion deficit in its balance of payments, refused to agree to negotiate on a devaluation of the dollar against gold or on specific conditions for removal of the import surcharge.

Wins Event at Longchamp American-Bred Filly Takes Fifth Straight By James Brown PARIS, Sept. 19 (NYT) .- American-bred Pistoi Packer again showed that she is "at home" in France by winning today the $238,700 Prix Vermeille at Longchamps, and with it, the unofficial championship for 3-year-old fillies. It was her fifth straight victory this year.

The chestnut daughter of Gun Bow out of Georges Girl III, pilot-1 ed by young Freddy Head, came from behind to win by one length from Mrs. Alec Weisweiller's Cambrizzia. Omar Sharif's Pink Pearl was third another four lengths back in the field of 15, all carrying weights of 127.6 pounds. The time for the 1 1/2-mile event over good going on the turf was 2 min-utes 34 7/10 seconds. Trainer Alec Head purchased Pistol Packer for his wife at the Saratoga yearling sales in 1969 for the bargain sum of $14,400. It was the fifth straight victory for Pistol Packer this year and with first place money of $135,000 today, her total earnings are now more than $400,000.

Pistol Packer, the odds-on fa-vorite at 4-5, paid the equivalent of $3.60 for a $2 bet to win and $2.40 to show

It was also the third consecutive time that Cambrizzia has finished second to Pistol Packer. In the Prix de Diane in June. Pistol Packer won in a photo finish but she came back earlier this month to defeat her rival hy 2 1/2 lengths while giving away four pounds.

If Pistol Packer shows no signs of wear and tear after today's effort, she will undoubtedly run in the Prix de l'Arc de Triomph in two weeks' tims where she will be meeting some top male competition, such as the Epsom Derby winner, Mill Reef and Ramsin, the distance champion, but another filly, Miss Dan, a 4-year-old, may be the female favoritein the classic.

Unfortunately, three of the best French colts. Rheffic, Tarbes and Leading Man, as well as the Epsom Oaks winner. Altesse Royale, will not be running in the Arc. and the defenders eventually Most players with the South hand would pass as dealer, or perhaps open one diamond, but he chose to bid one spade.

The other three players each bid a new suit, and South resisted the urge to show his six-card diamond support. He passed indicating a minimum hand, and his opponents bid strongly to four hearts, an unbeatable contrant.

South still was not inclined to support diamonds. Instead he rebid his feeble spade suit, an action that carried an inference that would be too subtle for most partners. If South had held a long, strong spade suit he would surely have rebid it on the previons round, following two hearts. So, as South had denied good spades, his only possible reason for bidding was a fit in diamonds. North could therefore judge that his partner held a few diamonds, perhaps four, but his eventual discovery of the full beauty of South's diamonds was a surprise. It would be hard to find a precedent for failing to support one's partner with six cards in his suit, East-West went to five hearts, but North naturally persevered to five spades. This contract can fail, but the defense must be inspired.

This would have been an effective defense if East had held a singleton club instead of South, but as it was, the declarer was able to finesse the queen and discard his heart loser immediately on the club ace in dummy.

A SORT OF LIFE

By Graham Greene. Simon & Schuster. 200 pp.

Reviewed by Christopher Lehmann-Haupt

NO question about it, Graham eccentric sunts that e Greene's autobiography willbe a disappointment to some people especially those of us who associate his name with action, intrigue, suspense, mystery and the other guarantors of enter-tainment that his long and productive writing career has taught us to expect. "A Sort of Life" is written in a deliberately minor key. Gusts of melancholy diffidence blow through and arount it. It abounds with tan-talizing references to later. posably more adventurous, periods of his life, when he traveled in exotic corners of the world, but these hints are never followed up. Almost perversely, he ends his account at a point of early failure, with the realization that came to him after the publication and ephemeral success of his second novel, "Stamboul Train" (its American title was "Orient Express") that he had not begun to learn the craft of writing. "Failure too is a kind of death," he reminds us; for want of the real thing, he opts for a symbol."

And yes, his decision to leave so much out is disappointing. We are so hungry for the old Hol-lywood ending of hard work rewarded and faith fulfilled and the sufferings of vulnerable youth avenged. (The success of Moss Hart's "Act One" is a typical case in point.) But a moment of cerious reflection should explain Greene's decision.

First of all, one cannot really expect the life of a novelist to be the source of high adventure. Like philosophers, convicted murderers and lighthouse keepers, the creator of imaginary works is condemned by the nature of his role to a relatively static existence. As Greene pinpoints it in the prologue to his story, "A book like this can only be 'a sort of life,' for in the course of 66 years I have spent almost as much time with imaginary characters as with real men and women." Indeed, though I have been fortunate m the number of my friends, I can remember no anecdotes. of . the famous or the notorious the only stories which I faintly remember are the stories I have written." Literate Dumbness

By Russell Baker

WASHINGTON.-The Dews W last week was not all de-pressing. For several days it seemed that it would be, but then, on Thursday morning, on the editorial page of The New York Times, a small shining nugget of good news lay glistening at the bottom of the letters to the editor columns, under the heading. "Mark Twain Didn't Say It." It was contained in a letter from David L. Baker Walter of New Britain, Conn., which took the editor to task for attributing to Mark Twain, in an editorial on Sept. 4, the statement: "Every-body talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it." Mark Twain Dever said it. Walter declared. It was written in an 1897 editorial in the Hartford Courant, by Charles Dudley Warner, Twain's friend and occasional collaborator, and editor of the Courant.

For those of us who regard Mark Twin as a great man, this was good news indeed, for "everybody talks about the weather, but nobody does anything aboot it" is such a pointless piece of nonsense that It has been hard to see how Twain could possibly have been the genius we think him if he was capable of going about in public uttering such inanities as this about the weather.

"Everybody talks about the weather, but pobody does anything about it" is one of those meaningless and often erroneous literary references, often used even by the best educated, to satisfy a taste for spicing disclosure with literary allusion. These allusions are called "liter-ate dumbnesses." because their use shows us how dumb the most literate meo can be.

Sometimes, as in the case of "everybody talks about the weather," ect., the literary reference is uttered merely for the sake of making a little preliminary noise before saying something about the current heat wave or an unusually intense thunderstorm, s sort of mental throat clearing.

There are dozens of other "litplained erate dumbnesses." of course. true.'

"The play's the thing!" is a very popular one. Very often, when something theatrical is under discussion, somebody literate will interject, "The play's the thing!" and nobody-nobody-will think to inquire, "What thing?"

"The play's the thing!" doesn't mean anything, but that rarely stops anybody from saying it. It sounds literate, no matter how dumb it is. In fact it is only semi-literate, being half of a line from Shakespeare in which Hamlet tells the aodience what kind of thing the play is. Shakespeare has a lot to answer for in this area, for he is responsible for more than his share of "literate dumbness.

One of the more popular is, "To thine own self be true," a plece of advice which persons of moralistic bent are fond of forcing upon other people who have real troubles and need belpful advice. Example: "Listen, Eddie, should I abandon the wife and kids and run off with impetuous young Julia?" Reply: "This above all, Pete: To thine own self be true.

What is Pete to make of this advice? Does Eddie mean that he ought to fling himself into wanton indulgence? Evolve a code of personal morality? Go into psychoanalysis to discover his self? Could not Adolf Hitler. in fact, have justified himself as being true to his own self? Then there is inescapable little old growing Topsy. People and things that grow in this country are not infrequently required to grow just like Topsy. Thus, it is possible to get a chain of "literate dumbnesses" ratthese tling hollow heads one against the other as in "as Mark Twain said. Everybody talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it.'" This may explain a recent big thunderstorm which, like Topsy, just kept growing, until tons of storm water began sluicing through the orchestra of the Rialto Theater. "'Why did you sit there until the water was neck deep?'" firemen asked one of the patrons, who had to be rescued by rowboat. " "The play's the thing!" he replied. What had he thought sbout as he saw his wife so down for the third time without offering to throw her his program? " "This above all,' " he ex-"To thine own self be

In Face of Change Happy Holland Keeps Its Cool

By John Vinocur AMSTERDAM, Sept. 19 (AP).-Relax, Jan Tegelaar says, relax. Wearer of serious blue suits, sturdy triple-E brogans, a 1963 Slim Jim tie knotted tight as a sheepshank, Jan Tegelaar says not to worry. No seconal. No blood pressure problems. Tegelaar claims he is sleeping deliciously despite a 63-day cabinet crisis this summer that left the Dutch without a government, a 1971 balance of trade deficit projected at $555 million, the inflation index DOW mounting at a 10.4 percent annual rate, a virtual doubling of divorces over the past six years, church attendance that has fallen from 80 percent to 47.2 percent over the last decade, income taxes that have risen higher than those of France, Britain or Germany. And despite people like Kees Hoekert, who sells marijuana plants from his houseboat on Kattenburg Canal, and "Lubo," who gives whip and chain-snapping lessons at his sado-masochistic boutique around the corner from Howard Johnson's, on Prinsengracht Canal.

Jan Tegelaar comes on placid, as undisturbed as one of Holland's million Hol-"We are not yet plowing up the steins. builts and planting marijuana," he says. "Why are all these foreigners worried about our country? We have seen awful times, and we've lived through them. The Second World War. Now, we are not worried about changes. Narcotics, I say, take the secret out of It. During the Nazi occupation, they rationed shoes. I had ten pairs Now I have four. Do you follow my reasoning? Our silent majority is not your silent majority. It's not so afraid."

Calm at the Middle

In a country where the statistics arch a graph of trouble and remarkable changes in life styls that might seem likely to be rattling the foundations of Dutch society, Tegelaar is a good reflection of what polls and surveys also show to be the calm at the middle—the triumph of Dutch placidity and its eternal cow-canal-cumulus-cloud landscape-or the emergence of the world's first groovy allent majority.

In a year when the Dutch were being asked to tolerate dope boats, sex shops, tens of thousand of foreign hippies molting in their public parks; in a year when things cost more and always seemed to contain less, 78 percent of the population could tell The Netherlands Institute for Public Opinion, a Gallup organization assoclate, they were happy, unreservedly so. This compared with 43 percent in the United States and 43 percent in the Netherlands back in 1948. It is the same society where a majority has decided, according to figures from The Netherlands Statistics Service, that heavy drinkers are more dangerous than maricatfish out of the canals and workers juana smokers and 55 percent think there's nothing objectionable about pictures of naked women in daily newspapers. Gallup says 79 percent of the American population find them offensive. Clearly, change is cutting through Holland like the sharp, sudden breezes that for centuries turned the country's windmills, now stilled and state protected totems. The best explanation for how the Dutch have come to accommodate it, and probably the best lesson to come out of the Dutch experience, is a concern for tradition.

Poking the air with his after-dinner schimmelpeninck-a small, smooth Dutch cigar-an Amsterdam businessman was surprised at anyone's surprise.

"It's quite stupid, you know. The changes clash only with the simplistic picture you have of us. You don't know our history well enough to know that we were a pleasure loving people well before the Protestant reformation. We don't surrender tradition easily."

To the visitor, there is substantial confirmation of this. Bicycles still compete with cars in Amsterdam's traffic jams; housewives still pridefully leave their front windows uncurtained to show the neigh-bors they're as tidy as the next woman.

For every priest who no longer wears a clerical collar and for every governmentsubsidized hippis crash pad where potsnoking is condoned-Amsterdam has two -there are hundreds of old men pulling slapping cards on the table in their corner But tradition runs deeper. The Dutch family remains intact. If the actual num-ber of divorces has doubled since 1965 and 50 percent of the population wants the divorce law made less strict-only 8 percent did in 1960-only three out of 1,000 couples ended their marriages in 1969. The 1971 national budget is remarkable in that education and scientific research, constitute the largest budget item, virtually double that allocated defense.

Crime Free

In spite of great amounts of money in circulation, more sex and less church, Dutch society has stayed remarkably free from violence or organized crimes. Almost incredible figures from the Amsterdam police department show that annual violent crimes and assaults actually dropped from 1961 to 1970-from 11,657 to 10,873.

The Dutch approach toward narcotics, following statistics from The Netherlands Society for the Promotion of Medicine that show only 1 to 3 percent of Holland's soft drug users go on to heroin, is to campaign against the danger of hard drugs.

"My party is out of power," said J.P. van den Uyl, head of the opposition Labor party, "but frankly, Holland, is far from being overwhelmed by problems. You can't compare us to American society. It's 40 years behind in many ways. All of Hol-land has an urban mentality. You'd do better comparing us to New York. We are not Times Square, but we don't have this tremendous fear of change,"

Nixon Makes Bid PEOPLE:

Democratic observers exchanged knowing glances when Richard M. Niron first rolled a gutter ball, then fouled out on his next attempt Friday at the bowling alley in the basement of the Executive Office Building adjoining the White Rouse, but the President, ignoring the jibes, gave as good as he got. Mirot, who often bowls at about 10 p.m. after a particularly tiresome day and averages around 150 per game, had invited the two individual champions of the World Inter-national Bowing Federation to try out his lanes. Aida (Ashie) Gonzalez, 27, of Puerto Rico, fail-ed to strike in three attempts. Edwin Luther, 25, of Racine, Wis., knocked down all ten pins on his second try, as did Nixon --after rolling his first ball down the gutter for a schneld. Nobody but the cameras (see photo below) noticed that Nixon had slid over the foul line, disqualifying himself for the hard-way spare-or at least nobody had the guts to tell the beaming President, who remarked, "That's enough "Political writers please note," added Nixon: "I did it in the right-hand lane."

A team of doctors in Lodi, Italy, saved the life of 5-year-old Laigi Luca Saturday, after the boy had been rushed to the hospital with severe breathing difficulties. The surgeons opened up young Luigi's nose and removed a sprouting corn plant, which had germinated in the damp warmth of the nose some days after Luigi had stuck a kernel up his nostril and forgotten all about it. · ***
